Y is for Yesterday Sue Grafton

In 1979 Fritz McCabe was involved in the sexual assault of a 14-year-old classmate. McCabe and 3 friends not only participated in the attack, but filmed it. Shortly after the tape goes missing. In the investigation that follows, McCabe and one other boy are convicted of the heinous crime, another boy is acquitted, but the group's ringleader manages to disappear without a trace. Ten years later, an angry and unrepentant Fritz McCabe is released from prison and back at his parent's home where he is still treated as a prisoner of sorts. When a copy of the infamous missing tape arrives with a ransom demand, the McCabes call Kinsey Millhome for help. As Kinsey is drawn into their family drama, she keeps a watchful eye on Fritz, but he is not the only one being haunted by the past.

Glass Houses Louise Penny

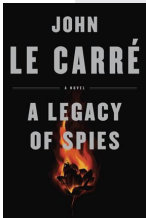

"There is a higher court than courts of justice and that is the court of conscience." – Mahatma Gandhi. When a mysterious figure appears on the village green in Three Pines, Armand Gamache, Chief Superintendent of the Surete du Quebec, knows something is wrong. From the moment its shadow falls over Three Pines, Gamache suspects the creature has deep roots and a dark purpose. When the figure vanishes and a body is discovered, it falls to Gamache to discover if a debt has been paid or levied. Months later, as the trial for the accused begins, Gamache struggles with his own conscience, for actions from which there is no going back. "This case began in a higher court," he tells the judge, "and it's going to end there."

The Right Time Danielle Steel

Abandoned by her mother at seven, Alexandra takes solace in the mysteries she reads with her father. Soon she is writing them herself, graduating to complex stories that reflect skill beyond her years. After her father's untimely death, Alex is taken in by the nuns of a local convent, where she finds the time and encouragement to pursue her gift. As a young adult, Alex publishes her first novel, but as she climbs the ladder of success, she adheres to her father's admonition: "Men read crime thrillers by men". Alexandra Winslow becomes Alexander Green, her true identity known only to those closest to her, isolating her. Always, the right time to open up seems just out of reach. Once her double life and fame are established, the price of the truth is always too high.

A Legacy of Spies John Le Carre

Peter Guillam, staunch colleague and disciple of George Smiley of the British Secret Service, otherwise known as the Circus, is living out his old age on the family farmstead on the south coast of Brittany when a letter from his old Service summons him to London. The reason? His Cold War past has come back to claim him. Intelligence operations that were once the toast of secret London, and involved such characters as Alec Leamas, Jim Prideaux, George Smiley and Peter Guillam himself, are to be scrutinized by a generation with no memory of the Cold War and no patience with its justifications.

Haunted James Patterson

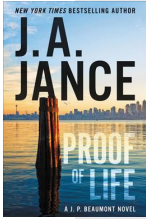

Detective Michael Bennett and his family are haunted. Haunted by a father's worst nightmare—the signs he should have seen, a son's desperate cry for help. Reeling from a crisis that could destroy their family, the Bennetts escape New York for a much-needed vacation to an idyllic country town in the Maine woods, a town which is very much haunted. Haunted by an epidemic emptying its streets and preying on its youth. This seemingly perfect community has a deadly vice that the vacation brochures don't warn of. When local cops uncover a grisly crime scene buried deep in the woods, they consult the vacationing Bennet. You can take Michael Bennett out of New York City, but you can't take the New York City cop out of Michael Bennett.

The Saboteur Andrew Gross

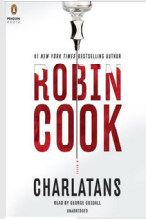

February 1943: Both the Allies and the Nazis are closing in on attempts to construct the decisive weapon of the war. Kurt Nordstrum puts his life aside to take up arms against the Germans. After his outfit is whittled to shreds, he commandeers a coastal steamer and escapes to England to transmit secret evidence of the Nazis' progress towards an atomic bomb. There, he joins a team of dedicated Norwegians in training for a mission to disrupt the Nazis' plans. Parachuted onto the most unforgiving terrain in Europe, Nordstrum and his team attempt the most daring raid of the war, targeting the heavily-guarded factory built on a shelf of rock thought to be impregnable, a mission they know they likely will not survive.

Proof of Life J.A. Jance

Before he retired, J. P. Beaumont had looked forward to having his days all to himself. But too much free time doesn't suit a man used to brushing close to danger. When his longtime nemesis, retired Seattle crime reporter Maxwell Cole, dies in what's officially deemed to be an accidental fire, Beau is astonished to be dragged into the investigation at the request of none other than the deceased victim himself. Caught up in a situation where old actions and grudges can hold dangerous consequences in the present, Beau is forced to operate outside the familiar world of law enforcement. While seeking justice for his frenemy and healing for a long-fractured family, he comes face to face with an implacable enemy who has spent decades hiding in plain sight.

Charlatans Robin Cook

The chief resident at Boston Memorial Hospital Noah Rothauer is swamped in his new position. Known for his medical advances, the famed teaching hospital has fitted several ORs as "hybrid operating rooms of the future"—an improvement that seems positive until an anesthesia error during a routine procedure results in the death of an otherwise healthy man. Noah suspects Dr. William Mason, an egotistical, world-class surgeon. But Mason is quick to blame anesthesiologist, Dr. Ava London. When more strange deaths start to occur, Noah is forced to question all of the residents on his staff, including Ava, who he soon discovers may be harboring strange secrets about her identity. With his own job and credibility in jeopardy, Noah must discover who is at fault before any more lives are lost.

Robert B. Parker's the Hangman's Sonnet Reed Farrel Coleman

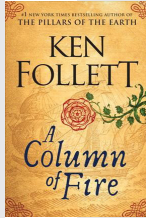

Jesse Stone, reeling from the loss of his fiancée, must keep it together long enough to get through the wedding of his loyal protégé. The morning of the wedding, he learns that a birthday gala is to be held for folk singer Terry Jester. Jester, once the equal of Bob Dylan, has spent the last forty years in seclusion after the mysterious disappearance of the master recording of his magnum opus. That same morning, an elderly Paradise woman dies while her house is being ransacked. What are the thieves looking for? Could there be a connection to Jester's missing recording? Jesse's investigation is hampered by hostile politicians and a trail of blood, forcing him to solicit the help of a notorious mobster.

The Other Girl Erica Spindler

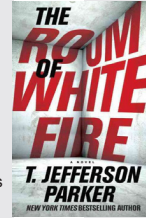

Officer Miranda Rader of the Hammond PD is known for her honesty and integrity. Miranda comes from Jasper, just south of Hammond, precisely on the wrong side of the tracks. She's worked hard to leave that all behind and earn respect as an officer. When Miranda and her partner are called to investigate the murder of a college professor, they're unprepared for the gruesome scene. Just when Miranda thinks she's seen the worst of it, she finds a faded newspaper clipping about a terrible night from her long-buried past. Then another man turns up dead, the officer who took her statement that awful night. Two murders, two very different men, two killings that on the surface had nothing in common—except Miranda.

A Column of Fire Ken Follett

In 1558, the stones of Kingsbridge Cathedral look down on a city torn apart. Ned Willard wants nothing more than to marry Margery Fitzgerald. But when the lovers find themselves on opposing sides of the conflict dividing the country, Ned goes to work for Princess Elizabeth. When she becomes queen, all Europe turns against England. Over a turbulent half-century, the love between Ned and Margery seems doomed as extremism sparks violence from Edinburgh to Geneva. Elizabeth clings to her throne and her principles. The real enemies, then as now, are not the rival religions. The true battle pitches those who believe in tolerance and compromise against the tyrants who would impose their ideas on everyone else—no matter what the cost.

The Room of White Fire T. Jefferson Parker

Roland Ford is good at finding people. But when the former cop/Marine turned private investigator is asked to locate Air Force veteran Clay Hickman, a young soldier escaped from a mental institution, he realizes he's been drawn into something dark. He knows about war and pain. What he doesn't know is why a shroud of secrecy hangs over the disappearance of Clay Hickman, and why he's getting a different story from everyone involved: Sequoia, the savvy but impetuous teenage girl who aided the escape and effortlessly avoids his questions. Paige Hulet, Clay's doctor, clearly deeply concerned for his welfare but impossible to read. What began as just a job becomes an obsession, forcing Ford to question everything he thought he knew about justice and the American way.
